Can I Really Work My Way through College?

PCC's Work Assistance Program has helped thousands of students pay for their college education.

Cost is often a deciding factor in choosing a college; PCC is an affordable $4,998 a year for tuition, room and board. But college is even more affordable with PCC's Work Assistance Program which offers eligible students the opportunity to earn $700–$2,800 a year. Students on work assistance also gain practical experience in one of more than 40 different work areas such as food service, maintenance, College office, and Print Shop.

But you may be thinking, "Can I handle classes and a job, too?" It can be done. Already, 50 percent of PCC's student body are completing class assignments and enjoying social activities while they work part-time to pay their college bill.

Meet Misty Ferguson (Ill.), a sophomore English education major who works in A Beka Book®. She says, "I don't feel that my job is a significant distraction from my school work. Because I work 13 hours a week, I've learned to take my study times seriously."

Jonathan Jacobs (Nigeria), a junior Bible major, has worked on campus since his freshman year. This spring he worked 16½ hours a week in the Distribution Center Annex while taking a full load of classes. When asked how he juggles work, classes, and other activities, he says, "I've learned to prioritize my time so that I can study in the evenings during the week and have fun with my friends on the week-ends."

Don't let finances prevent you from following your college dream. PCC offers work opportunities year-round. Call today for more information: 1-800-PCC-INFO. Our Admissions Office is now open 7 a.m.–6 p.m. Central Time to take your call.

Here Am I Lord, Send Me

Missions Conference
February 1998

Responding to God's Call to Missions

A living kaleidoscope of colorful flags and native dress heralded the beginning of the 1998 Missions Conference. Each of PCC's 252 international students from 59 foreign countries represented thousands of their countrymen who have not yet heard the gospel. Accompanied by guest missionaries, they served as a visible response to God's question, "Whom shall I send?" "Here am I; send me!" The Parade of Nations stirred many hearts throughout the Dale Horton Auditorium. Guest speakers B. Clayton Shumpert and George Collins issued an inspiring challenge to focus on Jesus and serve Him unconditionally.

Bob Mach (PCC '86)
—Ivory Coast, West Africa

Bob Mach's time at Pensacola Christian College taught him the attitude he now carries in Ivory Coast, West Africa: to do the work of the ministry in a first-class manner, for the honor and glory of the Lord. "Whether I'm teaching at the Bible Institute on the field or preaching at a church on furlough, I must honor the Lord in all things."

More than 250 international students represented 59 foreign countries at '98 Missions Conference.

PCC Alumni Give Their Mission Field Reports

10 Graduates Return as Missionaries for '98 Conference

His ministry makes him dependent on prayer, for some things are difficult, such as speaking French and understanding the Ivorian culture. But God is faithful, and Bob rests in the knowledge that he is God-called. After his junior year at PCC, Bob went on a summer missions trip to Togo, West Africa. The second night, after hearing a Togolese man preach the gospel, God answered his six-year question of which mission field he should serve. Because Bob and his family know they are exactly where the Lord wants them, they can meet obstacles head-on, believing that God will provide their every need.

Cheryl Dyck (PCC '91) —Philippines

Undaunted by cobras and sudden power outages, nursing graduate Cheryl Dyck serves in the Philippines at Palawan Baptist Hospital, doing anything from cleaning cuts to delivering babies by flashlight. "It's really a tropical, rural hospital, not a sterile, modern, North American facility." In addition to her hospital duties, she holds weekly Bible clubs for local children, ministers in churches through music, and teaches piano lessons. Through it all she attests, "God has proved Himself over and over again and has never left me alone. I claimed Joshua 1:9 after I was called during a Missions Conference at PCC. The promises of God and the prayers of others have kept me going whenever I became discouraged."

Her vibrant spirit and consistent acknowledgment of God's working through her make her a shining light in a country whose needs run deep.

Jason Morris (PCC '93; '95) and Maria (Spinnett, '92) Morris —Paraguay

Jason Morris knew from the age of twelve that he would be a missionary, so when he came to PCC, he chose the obvious major — missions. Jason and Maria met at PCC, married, and moved to Paraguay where they now serve as missionaries. He trains men to be pastors, church leaders, and Sunday school teachers.

Maria Morris, commercial art major, gained practical experience illustrating textbooks for A Beka Book®. On the mission field, Maria began painting the Paraguayan people and now sells her artwork in galleries. To those who ask where her inspiration comes from, Maria responds in the best Spanish she can muster: "The light and color in my art is inspired by the hope and joy that I have in my personal relationship with Jesus Christ."

This unusual answer opens the door for her to share Christ with upper-class people who are often difficult to reach with the gospel.

Maria views her painting not as a separate ministry from her husband's, but rather as "the 'complementing highlights.' Jason's teaching is the subject matter. His work in training other Christian leaders is so important that I take a lot of time away from my art to help him." Jason and Maria love Paraguay and now find it the only place they truly feel at home.

Christians make a difference

Law enforcement is an open field calling for Christian laborers, and what better place to prepare than Pensacola Christian College. Here “ministers” don’t necessarily leave with a Bible degree headed for the pastorate; many serve in federal, state, and local arenas as criminal justice officers. According to Rom. 13:4, law enforcement officers are “minister[s] of God to thee for good,” and just like pastors, they must deal with the root problem of sin. PCC trains students in the criminal justice and law enforcement programs with this philosophy.

Courses taught from a Biblical approach

PCC’s law enforcement classes emphasize the deep responsibility to God to uphold the law. Students can pursue either a four-year bachelor’s or two-year associate’s degree. Both programs include courses such as corrections, criminal law, and juvenile delinquency; the four-year degree branches out into courses such as probation and parole, victimology, criminal justice research, and security.

Hands-on experience

After students complete their sophomore year, they have the opportunity to work on College security but are required to complete two practicums—one in a police agency and one with a probation or parole officer. These practicums combine theory and practice in a realistic setting and help students make career decisions.

Faculty experienced in the field

The law enforcement faculty have nearly 90 years' combined experience in criminal justice. Their backgrounds enable them to teach from personal experience, not just textbook information. Their years in the field give them many connections to job opportunities for students and to guest speakers currently in the field. Occasionally, a local sheriff, federal agent, border patrol officer, or other officers will speak in the classes.

Christians make a difference

Darrell Pope, a member of the criminal justice faculty who served 30 years with the Michigan State Police, says, "I would strongly urge students to get into criminal justice to help maintain standards of honesty and morality. Their testimonies can be a great influence in changing our country's direction."

For more information on the law enforcement and criminal justice programs, see page 9 to find out how you can contact PCC.

Eagles Wrestlers Win National Championship

Hazewinkel named national Coach of the Year

The Eagles pinned their fourth national championship in five years at the 1998 NCCAA National Wrestling Tournament. Five PCC wrestlers won national titles and Coach Jim Hazewinkel was voted national Coach of the Year for the fourth time.

"Our guys did a good job; Cumberland College was favored to win," said Coach Hazewinkel. "In the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA), Cumberland is rated as one of the top 20 teams in the nation. Earlier this year we finished behind them in four different tournaments before defeating them for the national title." PCC's 86½ points topped Cumberland's 81¾ points for first place. Other tournament participants included Maranatha Baptist Bible College and Baptist Bible College (Clarks Summit, Pa.).

EAGLES NATIONAL CHAMPIONS

Jason Kellhofer (Ohio)—142 lbs. / 4th consecutive title; voted Outstanding Wrestler at the tournament

Reuben Scheeringa (Alaska)—118 lbs. / 2nd title

PCC Hosts Second

Enrichment Conference

Delegates from 26 states and Canada attended PCC's second Enrichment Conference for pastors, youth pastors, and their wives, March 3-6, 1998. Speakers focused on increasing the local church's effectiveness in the late '90s; they addressed key ministry concepts and offered fresh, practical ideas for application. Delegates also enjoyed leisure time, including a fish fry and a service in an outdoor pavilion at Big Lagoon State Park.

Comments from delegates:

"I made decisions that will change my ministry."

Youth Pastor, Florida

"I appreciated the willingness of the leaders to be personally transparent and available to us."

Pastor, Texas

"The sessions were excellent and very challenging. The Conference exceeded our expectations for spiritual refreshment, fellowship, and teaching!"

I sinned. And straightway, post-haste, Satan flew
Before the presence of the most high God,
And made a railing accusation there.
He said, "This soul, this thing of clay and sod,
Has sinned. 'Tis true that he has named Thy name,
But I demand his death, for Thou hast said,
'The soul that sinneth, it shall die.' Shall not Thy sentence be fulfilled? Is justice dead?
Send now this wretched sinner to his doom.
What other thing can righteous ruler do?"
And thus he did accuse me day and night,
And every word he spoke, O God, was true!

Then quickly One rose up from God's right hand,
Before Whose glory angels veiled their eyes.
He spoke, "Each jot and tittle of the law
Must be fulfilled; the guilty sinner dies!
But wait—suppose his guilt were all transferred
To Me, and that I paid his penalty!
Behold My hands, My side, My feet! One day
I was made sin for him, and died that he Might be presented, faultless, at Thy throne!"
And Satan flew away. Full well he knew
That he could not prevail against such love,
For every word my dear Lord spoke was true!

From the President

The prophet Jeremiah once said, "Mine eye affecteth mine heart" (Lam. 3:51). A pastor sent me a letter that expresses how seeing PCC for himself made a great impression on him:

"Our family made a recent visit to PCC. It was an excellent opportunity to see what the Lord is doing firsthand. I felt that I had full reign to see the campus and talk to the college students.

In a word, I was impressed with what you are doing for the Lord. At every turn, I saw the spirit of excellence and the desire to honor the Lord in everything. I have no doubt that over the years the Lord has honored your work and your goal of pleasing Him. I am delighted that your institution has remained faithful to the Lord.

I'm thankful for what I discovered on your campus. The visit to your campus was not only an exploration trip for my family, but it helped answer the question for me as a pastor—"Where do I send my kids?"

You have made me a friend and a prayer supporter of Pensacola Christian College."

Yes, seeing is believing. PCC is truly the work of God. We invite you to come and see firsthand what the Lord is doing here!

Pensacola Theological Seminary

Established to Strengthen Your Ministry

Pensacola Theological Seminary offers three degrees—D. Min., M. Div., and M.A. in Bible Exposition—designed to strengthen your ministry and knowledge of God's Word. The Seminary faculty are dedicated to helping you become more effective in sharing the gospel, preaching the Word, and shepherding the flock.

Dr. Robert Kendall

Dr. Robert Kendall, who holds a Th.D. from Dallas Theological Seminary and served as senior pastor for 17 years before joining the PTS faculty, knows the importance of pastors having a Biblical basis for dealing with contemporary issues: "One of a pastor's jobs is to warn the church of those issues before they get out of hand. 'That we henceforth be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men' Ephesians 4:14." Dr. Kendall considers it a privilege and responsibility to encourage, teach, and build other pastors for their calling.

Course scheduling is very flexible for those actively involved in ministry; one-week modules and summer courses are offered with work completed away from campus. Advanced standing is available for those with Bible college background who are interested in the Master of Divinity program.

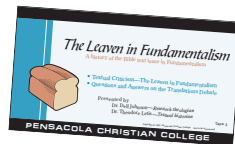

For more information about Pensacola Theological Seminary, call 1-800-PTS-1284 or write to the address on page 9.
