Collegians

Excite Campus Life

In 1974, four Collegians were organized to provide opportunities for student leadership, service activities, and intramural athletic competitions. As enrollment increased, the number of Collegians increased; today there are 42 Collegians, each with approximately 100 members. All classifications (freshmen to seniors), academic majors, and backgrounds blend to form a unique group of friends that otherwise might never meet. Each Collegian elects officers, who develop organization, communication, and leadership skills as they plan collegian meetings. Games, skits, and devotional messages are incorporated in the meetings. They also coordinate outings each semester.

All Collegians are called by Greek letters and have their own name, colors, and mascot. For "Greek Rush" in the fall semester, members design and construct colorful parade floats and exhibit booths to recruit new members. New students are always welcomed into a Collegian and there is no hazing.

After choosing a Collegian, the participation level is up to each student. Members can compete in a number of major and minor sports, like soccer, basketball, volleyball, softball, flag football, swimming, tennis, wrestling, table tennis, and chess. In addition, men's Collegians sponsor cheerleading squads that cheer at intramural sports events.

Joining a Collegian is a great way to catch the spirit of student life. 🍷

Message—Dr. Jim Schettler

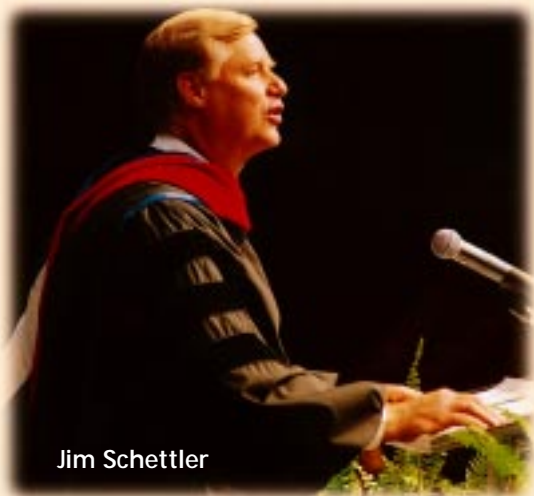

There are three kinds of days in the life of a believer: building days, battling days, and banner days. This is a banner day to celebrate what God has done with a group of His children. This day His banner is raised. Let everything that has breath praise His name! We will not be slack to thank Him for His Word—that Word that guides us like a map, that Word that feeds us like a meal, that Word that protects us like a shield. We will forever praise Him for being merciful. We deserved the lake of fire in hell, and He gave us the golden streets of heaven. His mercy endureth to all generations.

We have come from all over the globe to praise the God of all grace, the Sovereign supreme for being faithful with His promises and liberal with His mercy. This day we reflect over all His goodness and rejoice in His marvelous plan for all of our lives. Praise Him for listening to the prayers we have cried out. Praise Him for patiently molding us into something greater than we were. Praise Him for providing teachers and friends who prepared us, taught us, encouraged us, and sharpened us for His service. We sing glory to the God who never slumbers and who does not even take naps. He knows the where, the what, the how, the when, and the why of every aspect of our lives.

Family of God, today rejoice! Praise Him this day for all His benefits, for all His blessings: the blessing of traveling mercies over the years going to and from college, and the blessing of good health and of a sound mind. Give Him glory, freshmen, He corrected you in love, He comforted you with peace, He changed you for good. Sophomores, rejoice in Him; for those chapel messages, those care packages, those constant reminders of His love every day. Juniors, sing to Him with a song of gladness, gladness for your growth in Him, gladness for your vision of Him, gladness for only one more year to go. Exalt Him most of all, seniors, exalt Him above any other relationship, lift Him higher than any other priority. As you leave this place,

Jim Schettler

Nehemiah Spencer (Ala.) and Eunice Thiessen (Canada) received the Presidential Citation of Merit, PCC's highest honor for consistent Christian leadership and an attitude that portrays the ideals and purposes of the College.

make your Savior, Jesus Christ, not just present in your life or even prominent in your life, but may He be pre-eminent. Never settle for anything less than God's very best for your life.

Special guests, family members, students, faculty, administration, let us all be still and know that He is God. The theory of evolution is not taught here on this campus as a science, but as a myth, conjured up in the darkened soul of man's depravity to escape the responsibility to a Holy God.

We rejoice today in a God who has fearfully and wonderfully created us with a purpose; to shine forth His glory. We do not accept here the belief that abortion is a humane way of birth control or that anybody has the right to choose to kill a baby in what should be the safest place on earth, a mother's womb. We believe God knew us before the foundation of the earth and had a design for us to complete. We sing praise today. We leap for joy in our hearts that the God who created us has protected, provided, and planned for us all the way from our mother's womb.

We do not allow a humanistic view of life to be practiced by our students. This teaches if it feels good, go ahead and do it. I deserve a break today, everybody else is doing it. We believe that God should direct our steps by His Word in our conscience and that true worship and praise to Him is a surrendered will in obedience to whatever He wants.

Yes, we this day desire to lift up and praise the Lord. Give Him glory, moms and dads, for He has been faithful to you. Rejoice in the child God has blessed you with. Praise Him for a son or daughter who is graduating today. Foreign students, rejoice! Praise Him for a place you could come and study about your Lord in an environment where there was not hostility or prejudice. Praise Him for your nation. Be glad for what you have received here to minister back home. Many students come here representing several different flags, but praise His Holy name, we rejoice today all under one banner, the banner of the cross. We have many different customs, languages, and ideas represented here, but praise His name, we have one Lord, one faith, one birth.

The saddest, sorriest person here today is the one without thanksgiving in his heart. The most tragic situation in this auditorium is the soul without joy in his heart and praise on his lips. Is there anger today? Does bitterness dwell deep inside? Does your justice system fight with God's sovereign will? Do envy and jealousy control your passions? Go to the river of peace and toss all your care, hurts, and sorrows away, then run back to the altar of praise and shout with a glad voice, "God reigns!" Cry with all your heart, "God is good, His mercy is everlasting, His grace is sufficient, His presence is all I need." For the time being, the battles are not raging, the building is not done, but today is a day off from work.

Today is a banner day, a day of praise! Let the joy of the Lord be your strength on this day. May every one of us stop and say, "Thank You, Lord." From the depth of our heart to the roof of our mouth, we praise the Son of God. What one thing can we give the King of Kings? What gift can we bring for the Lord of Lords, who has done so much for us? We come today under the one banner that He will accept and that will make him glad, the banner of praise!

*Had I a thousand lives to live
I'd live them all for Thee,
Who once for me Thy life didst give,
O Lamb of Calvary!
Bought with Thy holy precious blood,
I am no longer mine.
Then take my life, blest Son of God,
As Thine and only Thine.*

*Had I a thousand graduates
I'd give them all to Thee
Whose voices would praise Thy works
For all eternity.* ✠

Grads Thank PCC for Quality Education

The personality, character, and philosophy of education at Pensacola Christian College is unlike other institutions. It was founded with the purpose of training young men and women for a life of service to the Lord Jesus Christ. During convocation, graduates shared these thoughts:

Esther Slater, (D.C.)—history/English
"I came to PCC for a Christian education.

By combining Christian philosophy with traditional teaching methods, PCC provided me with a distinctly different education, giving me a decided advantage over thousands of graduate school applicants. I will be attending Notre Dame Law School on a full scholarship this fall, and I believe I will be a step ahead of my fellow students because of the education I received at Pensacola Christian College."

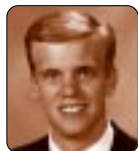

Raquel Gomez, (N.J.)—premed "PCC's faculty goes beyond the call of duty. My teachers did not just teach; they showed Christ's love to me. My Bible teachers helped me become a better Christian as they gave me good advice and prayed with me for my family. My premed advisor helped me prepare for the MCAT exam and for my medical school interviews. The entire chemistry department prayed for my dad as he went through surgery last semester. As I attend the MD program at Robert Wood Johnson Medical School, I will cherish the memories of the faculty here at PCC."

Barry Moyer, (Pa.)—criminal justice "The highlight of my academic career was an internship with the United States Secret Service last summer. I gained experience in counterfeit detection, fraud investigation, and protection details. I am presently being considered for a position as an officer with the Secret Service.

Because of the excellent education I received in PCC's criminal justice program and the practical experience I gained through my internship, I feel prepared for whatever the Lord has for me in the future."

Matt Waliszek, (Maine)—math and history education "My math and science classes have shown me how God has intricately woven His creation together, and I look forward to teaching the handiwork of God in my own classroom in a Christian school. In all my classes, including those in my history major,

I was not just given man's theories, but was taught biblical principles as well as traditional, common-sense practices from a Christian perspective. PCC is unique in its excellent teacher training, and I am thankful for its standards."

PCC's administration, faculty, and staff are dedicated to training young people to serve God. Students graduate with a solid Christian foundation for serving the Lord in any profession. Many members of the class of 2000 will be continuing their education at graduate schools. ✠

Windsor

Executive Dining at Four Winds

From the President

Arlin Horton
President/Founder

Success is an elusive word, often discussed but seldom defined. It is a word that is only used once in the Bible. According to Josh. 1:8, success is predicated upon adherence to the principles of God's Word. In a culture that measures success by the benchmarks of prestige, possessions, and power, it was refreshing to receive the following letter from the parent of a PCC student.

"It is truly a blessing to have a wonderful Christian College like PCC for our son. Your affordable tuition has made college less of a financial burden. Your dedication to academic excellence has assured us that our son will have the necessary background and skills to succeed in the business world. Your Bible-based teachings and high standards have assured us that his faith will have the opportunity to be strengthened during his college days. God has blessed PCC, and PCC is a great blessing to Christian families."

This mother chose some significant words for her letter including "dedication," "skills," "Bible-based teachings," "high standards," "faith," and most important of all "God." She knew the true ingredients which comprise the formula for Biblical success.

It is not a coincidence that these words are descriptive of the student life, philosophy, and purpose of PCC. We exist as an institution to train young people to be successful for God. We believe that is also the heartbeat of many parents across our nation. We trust that you will prayerfully consider sending your children to PCC where we can work together to achieve this goal.

"This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth . . . for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous and then thou shalt have good success." Josh. 1:8.

A dedication ceremony was held Easter Sunday, April 23, for PCC's new executive dining room. Windsor provides a festive yet elegant dining atmosphere for administrative guests and is equipped with its own kitchen. Located in Four Winds, Windsor doubled the seating capacity of the previous Regency dining room.

Walter Acosta, head chef of Windsor, was trained at the Culinary Institute of America in New York and has spent 17 years catering special events for prominent figures, such as Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and General Norman Schwarzkopf, before coming to PCC.

"If America
ceases to be good,
America will cease
to be great"

—de Tocqueville

At the age of 26, Alexis de Tocqueville, a famous French statesman, historian, and social philosopher, visited America in the 1830's to discover what made her so great. He studied America from rural to urban, coastline to inland, and published his observations in a classic two-volume work, Democracy in America. Here is an excerpt from his work:

"I sought for the key to the greatness and genius of America in her harbors; . . . and boundless forests; in her rich mines . . . and institutions of learning. I sought for it in her democratic congress and in her matchless Constitution. Not until I went into the churches of America and heard her pulpits flame with righteousness did I understand the secret of her genius and power."

"America is great because America is good, and if America ever ceases to be good, America will cease to be great. The safeguard of morality is religion, and morality is the best security of law as well as the surest pledge of freedom."

—Democracy in America
by Alexis de Tocqueville

★ Vote November 7 ★

This election could determine America's future regarding Christian and family values.

Did You Know laws that could harm your family, church, or school could be passed next year if candidates are elected who do not share your family and freedom values.

Do You Care? If So, You Should

- ★ Check all candidates' voting records regarding Christian, family, and conservative issues and then vote for those who best represent your views.
- ★ Be informed and then motivate others to be informed as to the candidates that best reflect your Christian values.
- ★ Distribute voting records and candidate surveys to family members, church members, neighborhood, and friends.
- ★ Near November 7, call friends to remind them to vote. If they are not informed on a candidate's values, inform them.
- ★ Arrange transportation to the polls for those who need it.

Be an informed and motivated voter.
Your vote counts!!

Estate planning

It is frequently difficult to make a large gift during one's lifetime, yet many of our alumni and friends would like to make a significant gift to PCC. Tax laws have been designed to encourage giving to colleges. After planning for those around you, you might want to think about a bequest to Pensacola Christian College. You would be helping the College meet the challenges of tomorrow.

An outright charitable bequest is fully deductible for federal tax purposes and is exempt from inheritance tax in most states. If you already have an up-to-date will, an amendment to your will can be used to make charitable bequests. We would be glad to help by providing information which you can receive by writing to the Office of Institutional Advancement, Pensacola Christian College, P.O. Box 18000, Pensacola, FL 32523-9160, U.S.A.

PCC Upgrades Student's Phones

PCC added a new feature to the students' voice mail system this fall. Students can now check the phone display to check for messages instead of calling their voice mail box. Their message button lights up if a message was left for them.

PCC Has . . .

- A very friendly campus
- Its own personality unlike any other institution
- Vibrant, Bible-believing programs
- Quality academics

Glorifying God through music

Yoshio Nakamura, '96 PCC Graduate

Yoshio teaching a private lesson

“Musicians can either promote self, their music, or God. Our goal is to teach students to be professional without being prideful so they can be a witness for the Lord,” says Dr. Ron Smith, chairman of the music department. God has given musicians a unique way to communicate to others. PCC desires to train students who will use their musical gifts to honor God in church, in the classroom, or on stage.

Yoshio Nakamura, a '96 PCC grad, teaches 4th–12th grade band students at Raleigh Christian Academy in Raleigh, North Carolina. Yoshio teaches music and also writes instrumental parts for his church ensemble and songs for his band to play at school sporting events. He uses the skills he learned at PCC as a tool to bless others. “Looking back, I’m very happy I decided to go to Raleigh. I believe that God has given me this talent to minister to others,” Yoshio says. His attitude reflects the servant’s heart PCC’s music faculty have toward their students. The music faculty get great satisfaction from seeing their students grow and develop musically with a desire to serve the Lord.

“PCC’s music program develops excellent performance skills without losing the heart for service. We challenge our students to be the best musicians they can be with the ultimate goal of serving God,” says Mark Crawford, assistant chairman of the music department. 📖
