

DOUBLE-DUAL SYSTEM (DDS) (A Three-Referee, Three-Whistle System)*

1. Three qualified referees work together as a team to manage the game.
2. All three function on the field:
 - (a). Can move on and off the field, as needed
 - (b). Stay close to play and players
3. Equally share in control:
 - (a). A decision by any one is valid
 - (b). All record misconduct to assure completeness
4. Concentrate attention in specific areas:
 - (a). Where patterns make observation most effective
 - (b). All responsible for any violations

A fourth official may be assigned to a game in order to assist the referee and two side referees and to ensure continuity in case one of the officials is not able to continue. Recommended duties of the fourth official can be found on page 105. When a fourth official is assigned, the tournament authority will clearly state the officiating position to be assumed by the fourth official in the event that one of the three referees is unable to officiate. The fourth official is under the jurisdiction of the center referee and performs those duties assigned by the center referee. The fourth official's normal station is at the table inside the official's area during play.

* In 1973, Harris and Harris, in the book "Fair or Foul" indicates that Joe Bonchonksy of Torrance, California devised the "three whistle" system of officiating to minimize misconducts in a tournament. Walter F. Ersing, Ph.D. coined the term in the Fall 1996 issue of the NFHS Officials' Quarterly.
